“ Every morning for these past months that Heather has been in the hospital, I have gone straight to her page when I logged on facebook hoping to see a miracle. And even with all our prayers for her healing, God has a plan that we just can't understand. I met Heather and most of her family over 20 years ago, and even though I haven't seen some of you in years, my heart absolutely breaks for you all. The last several times I saw Heather, was running into each other shopping. Every time I ran into her was a blessing. She always had a gorgeous smile and a heartfelt "How are you?" The memory of her I will hold dear is the day I responded that I was actually pretty crappy, having some type of minor health issue dragging me down. She instantly took my hand and started to pray. Praying in the middle of Walmart. We parted with a hug and her promise to pray for me and that God would take care of me. My prayer today is that God take care of you all through this trying time.~Ann Carnes
