“ I can say this if you wasn't ready she would make you ready. I know this won't make sense to many but it was absolutely truest thing I can say. If you wasn't ready for the truth she made you ready, if you wasn't ready to be embarrassed she made you ready, and if you wasn't prepared in life for the ups and downs she made you ready for what was coming next. Theses are my word to describe my aunt. I guess what I'm saying is no matter in good, funny, and or bad times she was who I could turn to when I needed hard truth. Her most famous line to me! Don't worry about the small battles Eric WIN THE WAR!!!!!!!

“ My mom was the most amazing woman that I've ever known. She was so selfless and cared for others more than they even knew. She was a giver to those in need and cared for her family beyond measure. Life as I know it will never be the same again. Our hearts are broken. Please pray for my dad and my family as this is the hardest thing we have had to endure.

Sue hired me at CCH many years ago. We had our moments but I totally loved her. I kept in touch with her and she would message me too. I am glad she was ready to enter her next life. I know she is pain free. Her favorite saying was always "I am livid! " Then she would get over it. May you rest in peace sweet lady. May God wrap her family in his loving arms the next days.

I was a patient at CCH several times and she always came in and seen me and asked if I was being treated good. She was a little strict but she was the best DON they ever had.

Sis I'm going to miss you so much, we been thru a lot together , we laughed not long ago, about our childhood memories, especially the one when I thought I was a cheerleader, and I shredded up paper towels to make me some pon pins, and had that rubber band holding them on my finger, and you set them on fire, we had many laughs over that one, and lot more things in our childhood,we laughed about,when I found out I had cancer, you was the first one I told , you worry about me and I worried about you, but I will see you again someday, you just keeping looking down on me thru my cancer journey, love you sis
